helping families GO further

“Underlying this word ‘Commons’ and its many derivatives is the idea of sharing what each can be to all and what all can be to each, what belongs to no person or class exclusively, but to everyone, to the whole person of the community or nations...So we hoped that Chicago Commons might be a community center where all people, without distinction of class, color, race, or sect, could meet and mingle as fellow men to exchange their social values. Here we hope that friendship, neighborship, and fellow citizenship might form the personal bonds of that social democracy, which alone can save our body politic from being cloven under any economic stress and strain or by class-conscious conflict.”
